AWWAM MESSAGE

CLIMATE RISK: IS YOUR BUSINESS READY?

What is Climate Risk?

Climate risk refers to risks arising from climate change that can affect an organisation's operations, assets, supply chains and financial performance.

Key Business Risks

Physical Risks

- Flooding
- Heatwaves
- Storms and extreme weather events
- Sea level rise

Transition Risks

- New regulations and policies
- ESG requirements and carbon reporting
- Technological changes
- Shifts in customer and investor expectations

Financial Risks

- Increased operating costs
- Supply chain disruptions
- Asset damage
- Loss of business opportunities

Why It Matters

- ✓ Protect business continuity
- ✓ Reduce losses from climate-related disasters
- ✓ Improve organisational resilience
- ✓ Support ESG compliance and investor expectations

What Can Be Done?

1. Identify climate risks relevant to your operations.
2. Assess impacts on assets and supply chains.
3. Integrate climate risk into strategic planning.
4. Set carbon reduction targets.
5. Develop adaptation and mitigation plans.

Climate change is no longer a future risk, but a present challenge that requires proactive action.

SAFETY MOMENT

Climate Change is a People Issue

Climate change affects more than the environment, it directly impacts people, health and workplace safety.

How Does It Affect Workers?

Higher Temperatures

Increase the risk of heat stress, dehydration and fatigue.

Poor Air Quality

Can affect breathing, concentration and overall well-being.

Extreme Weather Events

Create safety risks, disrupt work and impact communities.

What Can We Do?

- ✓ Stay hydrated and take regular breaks
- ✓ Monitor weather and air quality updates
- ✓ Follow workplace safety procedures
- ✓ Look out for colleagues, especially during extreme conditions

Safety Message

"Protecting people is at the heart of sustainability. As the climate changes, caring for worker health and safety becomes more important than ever."

GOVERNANCE INSIGHT

Code of Ethics & Business Conduct (COEBC) Series

At AWWAM, we are committed to respecting the dignity, rights and well-being of every individual and community we interact with. Upholding human rights is a fundamental part of our values and guides the way we conduct our business and workplace relationships.

Part 3: Respecting Human Rights

What Respecting Human Rights Means for Us

Treat Everyone with Dignity and Respect

Every employee, customer, contractor, supplier and community member must be treated fairly, respectfully and without discrimination.

Promote an Inclusive Workplace

We foster a work environment where diversity is valued, equal opportunities are provided and everyone feels safe, respected and heard.

Prevent Human Rights Violations

We will not engage in, support or contribute to any activity that violates human rights, including harassment, discrimination, forced labour, child labour or any form of exploitation.

Respect Communities and Stakeholders

Our operations should always consider the well-being, rights and interests of the communities and stakeholders affected by our activities.

Speak Up Against Unfair Treatment

Employees are encouraged to report any concerns related to discrimination, harassment, abuse or other human rights issues. AWWAM is committed to addressing concerns fairly and protecting those who report them in good faith.

Practising Human Rights Every Day

Respecting human rights is not only a legal and ethical responsibility it is about creating a culture of care, fairness and mutual respect. Every action we take contributes to a positive and inclusive workplace.

Simple ways to uphold human rights:

- Treat colleagues, customers and stakeholders with courtesy and respect
- Value diversity and embrace different perspectives
- Speak up if you witness discrimination, harassment or unfair treatment
- Support a safe, healthy and inclusive work environment
- Consider the impact of your actions on others and the communities we serve

By respecting human rights, we strengthen trust, promote a positive workplace culture and uphold AWWAM's commitment to ethical and responsible business practices.
